Opening A

On the corner of 24th and Court Street is one of the citys miracles. This PHHS building houses 1,838 students and 121 staff members whose goal is to produce a generation of leaders, workers, and lifetime learners.

Everywhere you looked there was a phenomenal amount of rebuilding with relationships, buildings, roads, and news.

In PHHS there were several new teachers for the 2001-2002 school year. Students had to get used to teachers' adjustments to either an unfamiliar school or their first teaching job. Teachers had to form new friendships and professional relationships.

Entering the building via the Court Street entrance, the students and staff were able to appreciate the flower beds designed by Mr. Wollen. The custodial staff constructed the frame while teachers, counselors, and parents helped plant the new flowers.

Taking a look at the back of the school was the reconstruction of the Teen Health Center. During the previous year, workers spent a lot of time tearing down the old, compact building and leveling off the foundation. A parking lot for Center visitors was added and expanded parking for the staff in the annex area. Unfortunately, with cuts in the state budget due to recession the Teen Health Center may lose funding by summer of 2002, causing it to close.

On top of new parking lots, there was continuous construction on roads throughout Port Huron. Many roads were closed, such as Military, Electric, Lapeer, multiple side streets, 10th and 7th Street bridge which were only a few of the closings. People had to find a different route to their various destinations. In the end the improvement of the roads allowed for a much smoother ride once it was completed.

With the tragedy that hit New York,

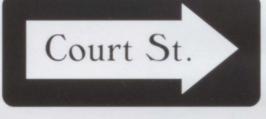

Pennsylvania, and Washington, miraculously people rallied to the aid of survivors. Students here were no exception. School organizations helped raise money through Coins for Cans, ribbon making and baked goods for donations.

Normally, Americans fly flags on the 4th of July, Memorial Day, Flag Day, Veterans Day, Election Day, but this year from September 11th on, businesses and homes displayed their flags with pride. In fact, every business in town and most throughout the country were sold out of flags during September. Cars were covered with bumper stickers or other red, white, and blue paraphenalia. Students added patriotic colors and themes to their everyday wardrobe, which included T-shirts, sweatshirts, jewelry, and hair accessories.

During Spirit Week Pamela Spencer, Amanda Caudill, Angelise Smith, Morgan Ostrander, and Renae Kilbourn show their patriotism.

Showing off their patriotism with their homecoming float was the first place winner, Senior Class of 2002.

Between two wings of the high school, stands the newly built Teen Health Center, which is owned by the Port Huron Area School District and the County Health Department. The Health Center now has an expanded parking lot for patients, but students usually walk from class.

One of the many roads closed was the overpass on Military Street, causing a detour down side streets toward Electric Avenue.

Talk about a major distraction! Students watched through their classroom windows while the Caterpillar knocked down the aging Teen Health Center. It was particularly hard to concentrate on Spanish and French with both the noise and the novelty of the destruction.

The students at P.H. move vigorously throughout their day, rising early in the morning to beat the 7:37 bell, dodging in and out of classes all day, possibly only to find themselves at work or attending extra curricular activities AFTER school. With all of these things in mind, it becomes apparent that most students are busy "24/7", a slang phrase meaning "all the time" or "constantly". This phrase has never been more fitting than in the case of PH students who manage the juggling act associated with such things as school, work, dances, plays, family obligations, and other out of school activities. The hustle-bustle doesn't end with the school year. Also thrown in the mix are events and hobbies that take place over the summer, from vacations to festivals. Though it can sometimes be stressful extending themselves in several different directions, students find satisfaction and a sense of accomplishment in the busy whirlwind lifestyle accompanied by being in high school.

Summer Time

Lazy Days

On June 13th the dog days of summer began for all Port Huron Area School District students. No books or teachers for the next two and a half months! Regular events like the Fourth of July Fireworks Show, Cruise Night, Race to Macinac, and The South Side Festival gave the people of Port Huron many festivities to attend.

Some students spent the summer working while others used their time to soak up rays at Lakeside Beach. Working was a must for a majority of students, in order to pay for their cars, school supplies, and other miscellaneous items. Although most used a combination of both working and playing to fill up their summer vacation days.

"I worked a lot and hung out at the boardwalk this summer," said Joseph Toto of his sunny season. Parades and The Carnival, plus, the arrival of the Nina and other Tall Ships gave residents more things to do. McMorran dances held on Tuesdays let students catch up with friends and the current gossip and trends.

The summer was hot and very dry, leaving many students left to beat the heat. Air conditioner sales were at a high and water was a necessity to get through the 90 plus degree temperatures.

Summer also brought forth many competitive sports events outside of school, like the modified softball teams that played tournaments at Pine Grove Park; not to mention soccer, and beach volleyball.

However students decided to spend their summer, it was a much needed break from school for endless hours of fun in the sun! See page 176-177 for more pictures.

Seniors: The Class of 2002

"We're the freshmen cool and new, look out here comes Double O'Two." New friendships formed as several eighth grade classes united into one. Our freshmen class was unique in that we had higher academic expectations than previous graduating classes, due to the fact that we had to obtain forty-two credits in order to graduate. We had to have three years of math and science instead of two years. Our next challenge as a class was to builld a float for the theme "A Knight in Camelot". We creatively designed a wise wizard in black and silver foil for the homecoming parade. This year marked the fiftieth anniversary of the Memorial Stadium. Clouds over shadowed these events with the fear caused by the bomb threats.

From teacher contracts to Y2K bugs, our sophomore year was filled with many obstacles to overcome. Numerous teachers had their doors shut in the morning while they marched with their signs of protest in the school parking lot. Despite the teachers and the administrations refusal to compromise on this matter we had to look past that as we began to build our "Under the Sea" float. Going beyond the other classes we took first place with our octopus. "2002 don't ever doubt it sophomore class is 'bout it,' bout it".

Waking up for school has never been an easy thing to do. Forcing us to come to school fifteen minutes earlier did not make it any easier. It seemed only fitting that our homecoming float was Sleeping Beauty's fire-breathing dragon that did not want to rise any earlier than it had to. Following the theme "Fairy Tales", our float earned us a second place finish. "When everything is said and done, the junior class is number one!"

September 11th was a day that affected a lot of students' lives. The senior class was kept up to date in P.O.D. with all of the information involving the attacks. The original homecoming parade theme, "New Year's Eve in New York", was changed to "Celebrate America", due to the September 11th tragedy. Mickey & Minnie Mouse and Donald Duck rode in a car inundated with the colors of patriotism for the senior float, which lead us to victory in the float competition. Our class also earned Homecoming Class of the Year. This year's class chant reflected our excitement. "The senior class is all hyped up, 2002 our time is up!"

Vacations

Sleeping in and no school! Students found Spring Break as a time to sleep in and do whatever they wanted to do. During this time off, some students took the opportunity to travel.

Students took advantage of their free moments by visiting places throughout the world. Vacation hot spots were places like Florida, Kentucky, Cedar Point, or cities up north.

No matter where they went though, students were looking for a good time. Devon Spencer (02) exclaimed, "I went to England over Spring Break to hang out with a member of the Royal Shakespeare Company. I would return in a second. I loved it!" Within the United States there was some fun, too. Latricia Price (03) said, "I went to Kentucky for the weekend over spring break and I got to meet a lot of new people." Beside the lure of new friendships, other places drew people in for new experiences. Scott Bennett (03) exclaimed, "I went to North Carolina to go parasailing, I wouldn't want to return though because I want to go bunji jumping in Pennsylvania."

Spring Break was most commonly spent with friends and family, although many put in a lot of extra hours at work. Earning money was a better alternative to dodging rain drops. With Michigan's typically uncooperative weather, students who stayed home had to spend most of the time indoors because of the cold and the rain that second week of April, 2001. Just about all students said that the best part was setting their own schedule without setting the alarm clock for school.

Spring Spectacular Hulaing To Fun

Once again, Port Huron High School led another eventful week of fun for its student body. Students had five crazy days to dress up for Spirit Week. Monday was Mismatch Day; Tuesday held the fun of Hawaiian Day. Twin Day was the excitement for Wednesday, Formal Day was the amusement on Thursday, and Friday was the traditional Red and White Day.

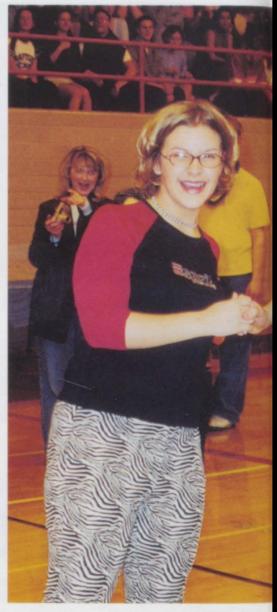

"My favorite day was Red and White Day because it shows the school colors and how many people take pride in their school," stated Emily Anglebrandt (04).

At lunch, all the Big Kahuna nominees and the Little Underclass Kahunas sat on blocks of ice during all three lunches. Leslie Torello (04) was humored by this event. "It was extremely funny to see all those tough guys sit on that cold, cold ice. I guess, it's better them than me, though!"

Lunchtime let the students forget about their worries. Performances were held during lunch four out of the five days. On Tuesday, Drama saluted Hollywood, Wednesday held the fun of History of Rock and Roll; Thursday was the Kahuna Ice Sitting Contest, and on Friday the PH Jazz Band serenaded the cafeteria eaters.

On Friday afternoon, class went against class at the 2001 Spring Spectatcular Games Assembly. The school watched in anticipation as their fellow classmates went head to head to get points for Class of the Year. Michael Recker represented the Class of 2002 in the Kahuna Hawaiian Dance. Performances

Class Acts

As usual, the Drama Team and the performing arts classes, have kept themselves busy with a number of new and ground breaking projects. A Night Of One Acts marked a first for Drama Club with the idea of student directing, whereas the History of Rock and Roll remained a traditional staple for performing arts classes. Also new to the theatre scene was the Shakespeare Festival, put together by Mrs. Foxlee and her performing arts class.

While students have always played an essential role in all aspects of the Drama Club productions, A Night of One Acts were directed entirely by students. Mirrors, Valley Forgery, and An Actor's Nightmare, all very different both in style and subject matter, were all performed in the same night for anxious audiences.

History of Rock and Roll lit up the stage in the cafeteria to entertain students while eating their lunch. Acts included Aerosmith, the B-52's, Destiny's Child, and a song from the musical, Grease. Mr. Stevens charmed audiences with his crowd-pleasing rendition of Tom Cruise's dance scene in Risky Business.

Under normal circumstances, just the mention of the word "Shakespeare" may give some students a headache, but such was not the case on April 27th when Mrs. Foxlee's class put a new spin on the Bard and his most famous works. Excerps taken from Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, in which Horatio was portrayed in a slightly more effeminate light, and Taming of the Shrew, were amongst the featured scenes. The gory Titus and Andrometa was made into a cooking show.

Trend Setters

The return to glam has made sparkle notoriously prominent in women's trends. Rhinestones jazz up such traditional items as tee shirts, belts, and blue jeans, while glitter continues to be a staple in terms of make-up. A new craze came in the form of body jewels. Tiny rhinestone tattoos placed on arms, backs, shoulders, or around the eyes were worn to dress up everyday clothes or to complete a formal look. On the casual side, some women wrapped themselves in kneelength sweaters for style and warmth.

Though women's fashions showcase the glitz of Hollywood, the look for men is somewhat more subdued. Cargo pockets continue to adorn khaki pants and shorts. As always, tee shirts are the most popular choice. Since most males don't go for the glittery-look with the various forms of body jewels, one found many of them personifying their look with tattoos. Some popular ideas for tattoos included crosses, names written in both English or another language, animals such as bulldogs, dragons and snakes, and armbands that extend around the bicep.

Another ubiquitous refinement, for both women and men, is the different body piercings. Belly buttons were transfixed in this generation of female teens who selected from an assortment of ring and bar style jewelry. With low slung pants and crop tops, these gems really shine. Men, on the other hand, choose not to wear the rings in their belly button but in their ears, on their eyebrow or on their tongue. Rings for men tend to be a little more plain than womens.

Spirit Week

Class Act

What a class act! During the frenzy of Spirit Week classes compete against each other. Many styles of pajamas, beads and masks, colors and autographs of friends on T-shirts, are some things that students paraded the halls of Port Huron High School with for the Traditional Spirit Week. During the week, students came together and competed against other grades to show which class has the most school spirit and earn points for the Class of the Year contest.

Rating the most school spirit for Spirit Week, seniors took the lead with sophomores in second, juniors in third, and freshmen took fourth place. Alissa Struble(02) explained "I participated in every day of Spirit Week this year because it's a fun way to support your class; 2002 rocks!"

Among the favorite days of Spirit

Week this year was Monday's Pajama Day contest. Heather Leslie(04) said, "My favorite day was Pajama Day, I was so comfortable, I almost fell asleep in my classes." Jessica Ledbetter(05) said that her favorite day was also Pajama Day, "Monday was my favorite day because pajamas are a good thing to wear the first day back to school when you're really tired."

Students seemed to enjoy participating in Spirit Week for numerous reasons. Santoria Donaldson(05) explained, "I participated all week in Spirit Week because we need some school spirit, you can never have enough." Students showed their school spirit this spring by bringing, wearing, or dressing out of the ordinary throughout the week, while competing for Class-of-the-Year points for their grade.

Homecoming

New Year's

"It's a blast, everyone should go," stated senior Joanie Crawford about the annual homecoming that took place on October 13, 2001. The theme was New Year's Eve in New York which was decided through a ballot given to all homerooms last June.

Greeted by four roaming strobe lights and a prodigious gorilla blown-up to create the motif of New York City, students arrived at the dance. Doors opened at 7:30.

The gym was transformed completely into New York's Time Square, with the scoreboard counting down the time until a balloon and confetti drop, that replicated the ball drop, which happens annually every year in New York City. It was complete with the New York Skyline behind the D.J., the Manhattan Bridge, and the Statue of Liberty.

The festive theme drew 1,200 partiers. Suits, tuxes, and a rainbow of glittering gowns accented the professionally decorated gymnasium.

At ten o'clock balloons and confetti were dropped from the ceiling to kick in the New Year to set off the last effect of New Year's Eve in New York. Partying continued until eleven o'clock when it was time to leave. Hugs, laughter, and friendship added to the magical night that will create life-long memories for those who attended.

Tickets for the dance were $10.00 per person. A poll estimated that the average amount of money spent on on the evening per person was between $150.00 and $300.00. Some of the cost included attire, dinner, accessories, and professional photographs.

Junior Prom

Dreaming

The Junior Prom is an old tradition being restarted at Port Huron High! The class of 2002, put together and organized an enchanted evening for themselves. The class worked together and raised money from pop can drives, ticket sales, and personal donations. Then, the parents and classmates used the money to buy garnishings, lights, and refreshments for the Prom.

The class joined with parents and the aid of Mr. Robert Haas (class advisor) for many planning meetings and the construction of the decorations. The date was set for May 12, 2001 and everything was prepared for the night in less than a month.

The Prom was held in the gymnasium at the school and the students bought tickets for $10.00 per person. "In A Dream" was the theme for this year's prom and the gym was trimmed in that fashion. Walking into the room, a person could see a towering waterfall, streaming lights and pillars painted the color of a white - clouded sky. "The gym looked very pretty. I'm glad so much effort was put in to make it an immaculate night for everyone who attended," said Jessica Albert.

During the dance, students could have their pictures taken by Angela Matthews, the photographer, with their dates and friends. The evening lasted three hours starting at 8:00 and ending at 11:00. "The DJ was good and I think the night went well. It was definitely a chance for our class to become closer with one another and to build school spirit," added Joanie Crawford. After the night ended, many of the parents and chaperones stayed late into the night cleaning up and tearing down the decorations from a memorable prom!

arrival of their friends. They sit amongst the ballons and decorations created by fellow classmates.

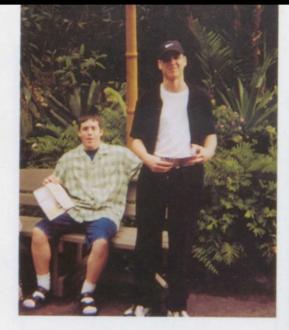

Jones enjoy showing off their dresses and talking among friends. A total of one hundred and thirty nine tickets were sold and the committee has high hopes it will become a tradition at PHHS.

Band Trip Mickey Mouse Style

"The wheels on the bus go round and round"-- unless you're on the band trip heading towards Florida. While passing through Ohio a wheel on the second bus fell off on the freeway, stranding band members for six hours while they waited for a replacement

The band spent three full days in the four Disney parks which included Epcot, MGM studios, Magic Kingdom, and Animal Kingdom. Students spent the last day in the park of their choice, allowing them to revisit any missed rides or shops. Some students visited their favorite parks all over again. Others visited the parks they missed because of workshops or rain.

Perhaps one of the best experiences for the band was marching down Mainstreet. The Big Red Marching Machine received the honor of marching in one of Disney's last night-time parades. Members had backstage passes to sights not seen by the public. As the band played and marched down Mainstreet, thousands of people clapped and cheered to the songs "Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah" and "Mickey Mouse March". "That has got to be one of the greatest experiences of my life. Nothing can ever compare to that rush!!" exclaimed Andrea Zauner.

The band also enjoyed many other sights in Florida. They spent a whole day at Cocoa Beach either splashing in the water, playing volleyball, or just getting a tan. While down there, they visited the famous Ron Jon's Surf Shop where they bought souvenirs for themselves or their friends. Another favorite was the Pirates of the Carribean Dinner. Members enjoyed a musical show along with much food and their very own pirate named Andre.

Miracle Workers

PHHS is indeed a "Miracle on 24th" and Court Streets. Touching the lives of fellow classmates through the experiences that the school offered led to the opportunity for students to be miracle workers.

The first miracle is that so many students from different middle schools and diverse backgrounds came together in a large building and found ways to interact with each other cooperatively, despite their differences. Within classes they found people to talk to, work on projects with, and learn from. Outside of class students sought companionship and miraculously molded to form sports teams and clubs. Where there once were strangers, there soon become friends. Miracles between friends happen so many different ways. You will realize that miracles actually do happen to you.

From Estonia, Anu Lil is one of the five Foreign Exchange students to come to PHHS this year.

Foreign Exchange

From Afar

Have you ever felt the thrill of adventuring to another country? How about living there for a year? This year PHHS met five new students who did just that. These students were Ksenia Bakarasova from Kazakhstan, Valentina Dolgikh from Russia, Anu Lil from Estonia, Mark Oelze and Sarah Schnorbus from Germany.

These students left their families to live with another family for a year. However, most of them found it easy to adjust. Mark Oelze explained, "It was easy for me to leave my country except for saying goodbye to my family at the airport. I think I'm pretty adjusted now, so it wasn't that hard."

From their experience of living in America, these students commonly said that through the many differences between countries, what they liked most about America were the people. "I like that people are more polite, kind, and better caring of each other's needs and rights. I also like the wide opportunities for one's future, wide choice in life in general, and human freedom," Ksenia Bakarasova explained.

Some feel getting around town is different. Sarah Schnorbus explained, "Both countries have about the same population, only things here are more spread out. You have to rely on driving places where in Germany we can walk to most places and have a central point where we can take a bus to other places if needed."

Host sister Kasia Schmidt felt, "It's fun to have them live with us because we learn something from each one of them and about their country," The Schmidt family had 3 exchange students stay with them this year.

Foreign Exchange students this year to visit Port Huron High School were Valentina Dolgikh, Sarah Schnorbus, Ksenia Bakarasova, Mark Oelze, and Anu Lil (not pictured).

Leaders

Not only did the officers need to be reliable, and dedicated, they were also expected to be positive leaders. "The advisors expect us to actively participate in any fundraisers or class events that we have planned," commented freshman Jennifer Moretz. It was up to all the officers to help organize and motivate as many classmates as they could to help out with what was planned.

The sophomore class also marketed candy, and candy grams. They sold T-shirts, held a 50/50 raffle and a freethrow contest at basketball games. The junior class advertised Christmas bulbs with the PHHS logo on them . They also planned a karaoke dance after the St. Clair basketball game to raise money for expenses.

The senior class had the most to plan, prom being the biggest event of the year which took the longest to arrange.

Mrs.Denise Raymo said that a different experience was, "When a student in class stuck a paper clip into an electrical socket and sparks were flying before I even realized what was happening. It was especially awkward when the student decided to grab the paper clip again to pull it out." Ms. Karen Szoke's experience, "When I cut my hair six inches and the class gave me a standing ovation," was exciting.

"After twenty-seven years of teaching I still don't dread coming into school," commented Mr. James Stayer. "I want to help children realize their potential and take advantage of their resources." This is why Miss Angela Cechovsky chose to be a teacher.

Floats

Around America

It was that time of year again. Port Huron High School's float building was back in session, and everyone's float had to be judged.

The seniors ended in first place. They made a red, white, and blue car with Mickey Mouse dressed in U.S. Army attire, Minnie dressed as a nurse, and Donald Duck dressed in naval garb. "We worked every day after school and there were some people who worked as late as ten o' clock at night," commented Nicole Steward. To make the car, they cut plastic and put it through chicken wire.

Even with the limited amount of building space available to the juniors, they took second place in the float competition with their swinging liberty bell that chimed. The signature crack was made on both sides of the grey bell, so that it would be visible no matter where you were standing. They worked after school Monday through Thursday.

Sophomores took fourth place with The Statue of Liberty for their float. "On the day of the parade it rained. While traveling down Water Street, the back of the float fell off! Then, just before the parade started, the Statue of Liberty broke and fell over; we could not get her to stand back up! I guess it was okay anyway," said Rebecca Walsh, who worked on the float, along with many others.

The freshmen were able to pull together an "All-American" float for a third place finish. "That first day at our float site was filled with uncertainty and apprehension. Most of our volunteers were girls, and almost none of us had picked up a saw in our lives," stated Kameel Stanley.

With a huge Ring 'N Victory Liberty Bell standing ten foot tall and six foot wide, the juniors took

Passing Zone

With the school year at full accerleration, students kept their studies in the passing zone! Six classes per semester, a 7:37 start time, homework, and a list of other activities meant that students were busy, and sometimes accomplishing their goals was a miracle.

learned that a slew of other activities had been planned. In science classes, labs and experiments drove the learning experience. The foreign language teachers planned events such as a Spanish Fiesta Day, St. Nikolas Tag, held in Germany on December 6th, and La Fete des Rois held in France on January 6th. These events gave students first hand experience for a "trip" into another culture. Teachers got some help from student aides and guest speakers. In addition, students themselves entertained classmates with presentations and projects.

Student designed posters and drawings, decorated the rooms and showcases.

Teachers gave individuals the chance to observe the creative ideas of their peers.

To Learn

Mouth-watering aroma filled the annex, students who did not take Spanish wished they had because today was Fiesta Day! "The idea was to find out what different Mexican dishes taste like," said Amey Booth. It was "a fun way to discover Spanish cuisine" said Todd Dmytryshyn.

Projects offered students a creative way to experience other aspects of a subject. Selections ranged from video making to research papers, role playing, speeches, time lines, autobiographies, models, and culture days. Students' reactions to projects were usually positive. Andrew Ruppel said "we had

Once in a while something amusing happened. Jonathon Oziah said "We got to light Robert Wandelt on fire." The point of projects was to learn. Sarah Steele said "it let me look up facts on Poseidon. I enjoy mythology and I got to explore it even deeper doing this project." For Patricia Torrez, "learning about various gods and goddesses and what roles they play," was the reason for her poster. "The idea behind my project was to take data and put it in another form and to sharpen geography skills," said Mrs. Shelly Jex about the population map her civics classes did.

Hands On

Experiments are a great learning tool. They let students work with what was studied to view ideas and theories in action. Experiments involve the students; they give them a chance for hands-on learning. Each day presented the students with new questions and answers about the world around them.

Students worked on experiments in a variety of classes, but usually they performed experiments in science classes.

Students worked on these projects: Bottle Rockets, Ecology Jars, Insect Models, Cell Models, and Phosphorus Tests. "Experiments make it more meaningful for kids. It's hands on." biology teacher Mr. Bruce Christick commented.

"Experiments are really fun. It's a change in how we learn." Freshman Amanda Hillyard commented.

Teachers sometimes assigned papers to students before experiments so they'd know what to do. Students did mini-experiments at home to problem solve solutions before the experiments they performed during class to ensure success. After testing their theories with hands on work, students did post-experiment write-ups to document their findings for an accurate record.

Action!

It's 10:25 AM...music blasts from the speakers...Everybody knows what that means: It's time for the morning announcements.

The third-hour announcements are a school-wide broadcast, based on a TV Productions course; similar courses are a first year class to learn the basics of video and editing, and a second year class for students to further their current abilities and also broadcast on the local channel, CPHS-6.

This year was Mr. Stayer's second year of teaching the 1st-year class. He, along with his student aide Justin Williams, helped students understand the basics and fundamentals of video editing; this year was also Mr. McCabe's second year of managing the school announcements.

New to the daily announcements this year was a more elaborate set designed by Bryan Shonka and Todd Dmytryshyn using donated materials. Another new element was Brad Foltz's Special Reports, which lent a little fun and insight into programs, people, or issues for the daily announcements.

Class assignments were projects which students edited, and remotes (the filming of sporting events for CPHS-6).

A Bit Extra

Besides teachers and students, teacher aides and guest speakers help make class work more successful.

The job of a teacher aide consists of duties such as, keyboarding, filing papers, running errands, correcting papers, or helping underclassmen with make up work.

Rebecca Bachman (2004) said, her favorite part of being a teacher aide was, "Getting to help grade papers and every once in a while I got to be in charge." Being a teacher aide provides a student with further knowledge on how to run a classroom. The experience of working as a teacher aide not only helps someone choose an occupation, but it also helps the teacher.

An extra treat for students came with the visit of guests and speakers. Some of the most common guest speakers were the school counselors, who made visits to underclassmen to help with scheduling and to answer questions.

The seniors got a day called "Portfolio Day", when professionals from the community came to the school and met in the Media Center to review senior portfolios for the occupation of their choice. The professionals conducted mock job interviews with the class.

Say What?!

Hallo, Bonjour, and Hola, are a few ways that Port Huron High School students said "Hello" throughout the year in foreign language class. Kasia Schmidt explained, "I like learning new fun phrases." For various reasons 332 students took a foreign language class this year, mainly for interest. Donna Dobson(02) explained, "I was interested in learning a new language and Spanish seemed like a popular choice."

Some students said that their favorite part of the class was watching the teacher. Ashley Reim(02) said, "My favorite part of the class is Frau, she's very humorous."

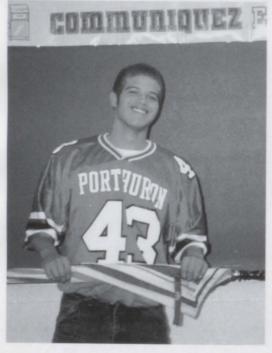

Mr. Timothy Owens first year Spanish class gathers around after finishing their alphabet assignment. French teacher Mr. Keith Hodge says, "The students seem to enjoy the class the most when we do amusing things, and embarass the teacher". One way Mr. Keith Hodge gets embarassed by his students is by doing dances to get his point across. Other students, however, like the class for the language itself and for being the only class where talking is a part of your grade.

Teachers too, enjoy the language, including Spanish teacher Mr. Timothy Owens who explained, "The best part of teaching Spanish is seeing the progress the students make as they understand and use the language."

Staying Fit

Two required courses, health and physical education, showed students how to live a healthy life. Port Huron High School's General Physical Education class is mainly offered to both the male and female freshman population. Students are required to take at least one year of physical education.

Students in General Girls' Gym said that they enjoyed the class the most when playing sports. Freshman Jaclyn Currier added, "I love playing soccer and softball." Students in general gym play many sports including volleyball, soccer, softball, and basketball. They also play more recreational

Multi-Task

You can't judge a book by its cover. That aphorism goes back a long time, and has many meanings. It even applies to our Media Center at PHHS. It may seem like only a library, but it's certainly much more than that.

Like any library, there are multiple volumes of fiction, nonfiction, and reference that the student body can check out, whether it be for research or simply for fun.

Another task for the Media Center is computers. Students sign in for one of the 24 computers to use them for research, group projects, and mostly for the internet.

Students often use the media center to work on their class projects.

"Many students use the computers to check their E-mail." Supervisor Mr. Joseph Wing explained.

Classes often use the Media Center for projects, while some organizations use it for presentations and meetings. The first hour TV Production class has taken permanent residence, holding class there every day. The morning announcements have their makeshift studio located in the Media Center as well.

The Media Center has certainly grown quite a lot over the years, and it will continue to evolve.

Student Aide Trevor Newton (02) answers Shaun Spana (02) and Robert Loxton's (02) questions.

One half of the Media Center management and supervising staff is Mr. Joseph Wing.

The other half of the team is Mr. Jeffery McCabe. Together, they kept the Media Center running smoothly.

Students often check out books for research purposes. Other times, they take them for fun.

Fine Arts Festival

A colorful array of student art decorated the tables. Mobiles of student writing fluttered at eye level for fans to read. Oral readings and a slide show entertained the crowd. The Fine Arts Festival(FAF) was held on May 18th, in the auxiliary gym. The FAF logo was designed by Krystal Brown(02).

Students could enter photography. poetry, stories, drawings, video, audio, and sculpting. Competitors and parents were invited to view entries and wait for awards. Students enjoyed cookies and punch, with music provided by Jazz band.

Mrs. Janet Barrett, Mr. Scott Magneson, and students helped set up the show. First place students received $50, second place $25, and third place a t-shirt.

Paying special attention to the fiction section, attendees of the festival look over the entries.

Strong Vocals

The combined high school choir students were happy to announce that this year the program had increased from 155 students to 190 students. Preparing for concerts, as well as working on scores and sight-reading skills, the students had a very busy and eventful year.

Vocal Theory was a class that was designed for students with varying vocal talents and skills. Students also received the training for a healthy vocal technique in both solo and group opportunities. Also, these students were trained in rhythm and sight reading and the basic fundamentals of score reading.

Sarah Dahlen, Amanda Burrell, Nicole Steward and Andra Collins sing together to see how well their voices blend.

Other choir classes included Womens' Ensemble, Mens' Ensemble and Concert Choir.

The combined choirs of Port Huron Northern and Port Huron High came together again to record their Christmas CD from their Candlelight Concert. Since there were about 190 students in both choirs, each student was asked to sell at least one CD to pay for the recording session and make a small profit.

The Candlelight Concert was held on December 10th at Life of Faith Church for the first time. The former site at St. Joseph's was too small to hold all the spectators and students.

The students from Port Huron Northern and Port Huron High's Concert Choir sing the National Anthem together.

Straining their vocal chords, the choir attempts to maintain their harmony.

Mrs. Linda Manuilow works to seat her Vocal Theory students, while Andra Collins, Nicole Ledsworth, Amanda Burrell, Erica Lempke and Patricia Torez wait for placement.

Angela Choptovy and Antoinette Rogers clap to the beat of their new tune.

Miracles!

It's a Miracle! There was very little time that the Yearbook Staff had to meet deadlines. They tried to make sure there was coverage on all the activities that PHHS students were involved in.

The Staff of 2001 chose the theme for the 2002 yearbook. They decided to take a walk away from a traditional theme. That lead them to "Miracle on 24th St.," which is an allusion to the classic Christmas film.

With so many new staff members and the loss of trained members this year a lot of rebuilding was needed. Returning members had to give orientation to new members, along with doing their own spreads in order to meet their deadlines.

Working on the computer, Sports Editor Scott Dwyer types up his Cross Country questionnaires.

Many members stayed after school to finish their spreads, edit other members' spreads, or help proofread names. "Staying after school in order to meet a deadline had its perks with food on those really late nights." commented Associate Editor Scott Dwver (02). Also, if a member put in twenty five hours after school it allowed them to earn their Varsity letter and the following years their bars were awarded.

Money was a little tighter this year due to the fact that the Staff was not allowed to sell candy during the school day. Candy sales had previously brought in close to two thousand dollars. Due to the recession it was also harder to get ads.

Keeping payments for the yearbook, Business Manager Melissa Berish puts things in order.

Helping Out!

Although some adults believe teenagers are a selfish group, Student Council proved them wrong. For years, members have allotted a major part of their time to charity events, as well as teenage activities.

Every year members take part in the Canned Food Drive, a charity event that took place in November. After the collection was complete, 2,700 pounds of food was then donated to the Salvation Army for the less fortunate.

For many years Student Council and The Red Cross have teamed up to host the Blood Drives in the school's Media Center.

Senior Nealy Kelley not only donated her time, she also donated her blood to The Red Cross.

Students volunteer to help out by giving blood; council members run the schedule. The Blood Drives were held December 7th and again in May 2002. There were 121 students that participated to support the event in the winter.

December was a busy month for council members who got involved in events for Christmas. Toys For Tots and Adopt-A-Family were two events that they sponsored.

For teenage activities, the Home-coming events were the most time consuming that Student Council organized. The dance was held October 13th in the school's gym. Aimee Carrothers said, "When you're on Student Council as a representative, you have to actually do your job and not just think of it as a title".

Music Miracles

"So come and join our song for Port Huron High, champions now are we." To be in the Big Red Marching Machine a musician must memorize the "Fight Song" and scales. Under the direction of Daniel Griffith, the band learned songs for football games, basketball games, parades, and a few concerts.

For football games the band did a pregame show, a half-time show, and played a few measures while sitting in the stands. For the shows, the Big Reds had to learn formations to go along with the songs. Many of the students enjoyed performing at the games better than parades. "I like performing at football games, because we get more hyped up; there are more people, and we get to do pre-game along with half-time," said Melody Seppo. Michelle Lee agreed, "In parades we play the same three songs over and over. There is less formality in games."

To prepare for the parades and football games the band had what they called "Band Week". During this week the BRMM learned marching techniques, time keeping methods, and how to play the music. "It was always above 90 degrees everyday and very humid. But, even though it was miserable, it [Band Week] helped build up the unity in the band, which is what I had really strived for this year," said Drum Major Aaron Smith, who shares this role with the other Drum Major Eve Jackson. The Drum Majors lead and conduct the band on and off the field.

The Big Red Marching Machine's Drum Line waits for the signal to play during the fall sports' assembly.

During a Monday night practice, even the poor weather would not stop the band from practicing. This weather was known to every one in the band as "marching weather." On many occasions it was either smoldering (during band week) or raining (practices).

Neither wind nor rain could stop the BRMM. Even with poor weather, it didn't damper the members' spirits while taking part in the parade.

Parade It!

As quickly as the flag whips up and down, so did some of the situations for the Flags. For example, halfway through the season the coach resigned and in December the captain also resigned; but in about two weeks a new coach was found and a new captain moved up.

Football season routines went well according to captain Marci Morrison who said "people really knew what they were doing, some members really had the moves memorized." The majority of the team liked the routine 'Jump in the Line' which was also performed at a basketball game.

time throughout the entire year. The team started the season with the Memorial Day Parade; since new officers were elected in May they were entitled to lead the Flags. During the summer, twirlers met to prepare their routine for the International Day Parade in July. Crowds of over 5,000 line the downtown streets to watch. Just before the school year started, new routines were developed at Band Camp in anticipation of the Homecoming Parade. Traditionally, this parade is marked with school spirit for high schoolers and enthusiasm from future Big Reds who spectate. Cold weather didn't stop this team dressed in Santa skirts and hooded sweatshirts for the Christmas Parade. March brought the Flags together for the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. With only ten minutes until they go on, nerves are on the fritz. Anticipation rises. Every girl on the team runs through the routine in her head. Team members stretch out to be able to perform difficult moves flawlessly. "Remember to smile," the team is reminded. "Your music is on," says the announcer. Before they know, it they are on the floor with the music playing; instinctively their bodies start to move in time to the music. "Remember to smile, look up," these words run though their heads. The music ends, and the captain, Jessica Evans calls her team to attention. She marches them off the floor to prepare for their next routine.

was one of the first dance teams in Port Huron. Many coaches and dance instructors began dancing on Thunderbirds. Current coaches Katie Wolfe and Jamie Smith, were two of the many that were on the team at one time.

In addition to competing in three to five competions a year, the team prepared by practicing two to three times a week. In addition to practices and performances, the team participated in March of Dimes and other programs. They also joined with the Big Red Marching Machine during football season and performed during pre-game and half time shows. Dancing in Homecoming, Christmas, St. Patick's Day, Memorial Day, and International Day Parades were some of the events the Thunderbirds danced for throughout the year.

"Iowa Stubborn

River City! Trouble with a capital 'T' that rhymes with 'P' that stands for pool!"

This past year at PHHS, the Drama Program put on the musical comedy entitled "The Music Man". The play is about Harold Hill, a con man who goes to River City, Iowa to do what he does best: stir up trouble, sell musical instruments to form a supposed boys' band, get the money, and leave. However, unexpected love strikes Harold, and he chooses to stay in River City with Marian Paroo, the local librarian.

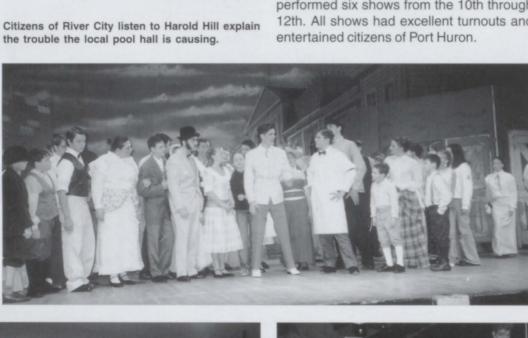

The Drama Program, directed by Micki LePla, presented their work in a new location this year; they used McMorran

Finally, the student's work paid off when they opened on January 10th. They performed six shows from the 10th through 12th. All shows had excellent turnouts and entertained citizens of Port Huron.

Service

In an effort to help the community, groups of students joined SADD and PAC.

SADD's goal this year was to educate students about the effects of drinking and driving. Throughout the year SADD members participated in fundraisers and events to help raise awareness in young people about drunk driving. The Mock Crash, Ribbon Week, the SADD conference, meeting with Canadian Police, and their annual Christmas party were part of their activity list. Sophomore Rebecca Bachman added, "We get to go to many elementary schools to talk to younger kids about the consequences of drinking and driving."

The Progressive Action Committee or PAC has done a lot this year for the community.

Mrs. Linda Olah sponsored this bunch! They spent time with the elderly passing out Christmas cards at Marwood Manor; they rang the bell for the Salvation Army, and worked with the kids at Woodrow Willson.

Sophomore Colleen Smith would recommend PAC to someone new because, "you get to meet new, great, and outgoing people."

Let's Go

Both Bowling and Ski Clubs are extracurricular, activity-based organizations, purely for the purpose of having fun. The PHHS Bowling League, however, came up with two competitive teams. One team was made up of eight guys and the other team consisted of eight girls. Tryouts for the two teams were held during the month of November.

The combined PH and PHN Ski Club started the year by replenishing their funds with a winter holiday wreath sale and Ski Swap bringing in a total of approximetly $800.00 with the Ski Swap being the predominant money maker.

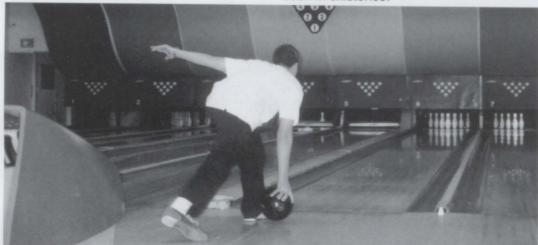

Benjamin Provost from the Bowling Club takes his first turn hoping to get a strike.

The money made from the Ski Swap and the wreath sale went toward making the ski trips less expensive for the members. To many members, the ski trip to Schuss Shanty Creek was the favorite.

The Bowling Club was back and was run by Mr. Juan Hernandez. The Bowling Club bowled every Tuesday at Blue Water Bowl.

There was also a Bowling League that bowled at Port Huron Lanes every Tuesday and Thursday. The practice routine for the team was to keep the ball on the lane and knock down the seventh and tenth pins only. Jose Ganhs said his hopes for the season were "to improve stats as a team and by myself."

There have also been some changes in the team during the three years that it has been in existence.

Steven Leach takes to the lane at Port Huron Lanes to attempt to go for a strike for the Bowling League made up of Port Huron High School students.

On his second turn bowling, Kody Semrow knocks down the last two pins.

Mr. Juan Hernandez, the Bowling Club advisor, joins the group as a new sponsor. The group started up in November.

Port Huron Northern students helped to advertise ski boots at the Ski Swap. The Ski Swap was held at PH and was a combined effort with PHHS and PHNHS. Port Huron student Krystal Brown, designed this year's joint-team hoodie for the Ski Club.

Competition

"Fundraisers, meetings, typing, spelling, and going to competitions are some things you can do in Business Professionals of America," explained Carra O'Dell. Among the variety of things BPA does participate in is various fundraisers and competitions throughout the year. This year students in BPA got the chance to help in fund-raisers such as calendar and planner sales.

On January 11, 2002, BPA students went to Regionals competition at Baker College. Mrs. Janet Haas explained, "I was pleased by the effort put forth by all the students at the competition." Students Barbara Duncan, who placed fifth in who and Systems Procedures, Danielle Ashton, who Fundamental Accounting, Jennifer Boucher received third place for Basic Office received third place for Payroll Accounting, and Melissa Raymond who placed second in Payroll Accounting and fourth place for Advanced Word Processing, were invited to Detroit, Michigan for State Competition in March. Qualified students went to Nationals Competition which was held in Chicago this year.

Business Professionals of America consisted of 23 students this year. This organization has been under the leadership of Advisor Mrs. Janet Haas for fifteen years. Brenna Brennan explained, "I joined BPA because I enjoy the business field, and the teacher isn't bad to work with either, you actually learn a lot."

Special Invitation

Character, scholarship, service, and leadership, all pillars of the National Honor Society, must be met before a student gets a special invitation to The Candle Light Ceremony. These individuals must keep their grade point average above 3.3. Despite all the requirements, membership has continued to grow.

In order to get inducted, a student must receive the invitation packet from the NHS advisor which requires that they choose six teachers and two co-curricular advisors to fill out evaluation forms. Teachers complete the forms, then return them to Mrs. Mitchell for review. The NHS officers go to the new candidate's third hour class, and they make

In their honor, The Candle Light Ceremony celebrates new and old members. Inductees are presented with an award and they sign the official NHS book. Every year a different speaker comes to give their words of wisdom to the students. This year's speaker was Mr. Relken, president of the local Chapter of the Red Cross and former mayor of Port Huron.

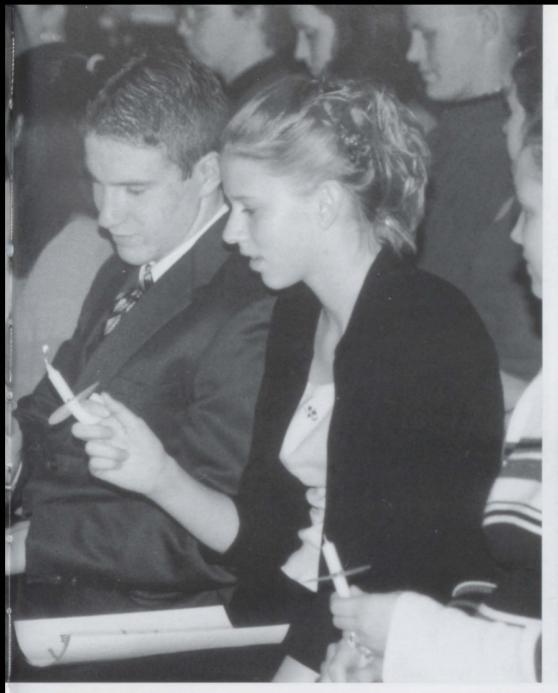

To finish the ceremony, the officers light the four candles which represent the pillars, and then they light another member's candle. The flame is then passed to the next person's candle, until every member's candle is alite. This symbolizes their coming together.

Largest team ever! Equestrians have nearly tripled their size since 1987 when only six riders started. Now with a strong team of sixteen riders and one ring crew member, the team finished fourth in their district.

For every class there is a certain attire each member must wear. In western riding classes they have to wear boots, jeans, a belt with a buckle, a long sleeve shirt with a collar, a tie, and of course a cowboy hat! For the huntseat classes, riders have to have, hunt boots, shirt with a collar, a blazer, pants, and a helmet. Road Block

Acting as a "road block" to their opponents, the Varsity Girls' Basketball team brought home the District Championship trophy. Along with Boys' Varsity Soccer and the Junior Varsity FootballI team, they had one of those "miracle" seasons all teams dream of as they start their pre-season training.

Mr. George Moger, the Girls' Cross Country coach, states that the importance of high school sports is, "the opportunity to experience work ethic, teamwork, failure/success, sportsmanship/citizenship, and life long physical activities." The Boys' Varsity tennis coach,

Mr. Greg Berra feels Tennis is important because, "it's a life long activity, you can begin at age four or five and play well into your senior (old age) years."

The laughter of teammates, the intense moments of competition, the hours of muscle strain at practice, the thrill of victory in front of a cheering crowd, drew 850 athletes into the programs.

While Big Reds acted as road blocks to foes, the major road block for individual students were the fear of failure or lack of ambition to get involved as players or fans. School spirtit is built on the unity of Big Reds.

"Heavy loads are only given to those with wide shoulders."

Young Talent

While the Varsity Team tied for third at the MAC White Tournament, the young talent of the JV team placed first at the Mac JV Tournament.

Players who earned special awards were #1 singles player Jermaine Walton and #3 singles player James Watson; they both took the Most Valuable Player Award. Jermaine Walton felt part of their success was from, "the hard work we all put into tennis day after day." #4 singles David Phu earned the Most Improved Player Award. Also, #1 Doubles player Aurelio Pena, received the Best Doubles Player Award.

The Varsity team had three MAC

White Tournament Champions; they were #2 singles player Timothy Wessel and #3 doubles team of Daniel Gerstenberger and Christopher Colby. At the Regionals, Varsity player Paul Shymko was a semifinalist, while playing #3 singles.

The JV team finished their season with 11 wins and 3 losses. The Varsity team finished their season ranking 2nd in the MAC White League standings and an overall score of 9 wins and 2 losses.

#5 JV doubles player Christian Schwickert watches his partner Sean Smith hit a forehand to return their opponents' serve.

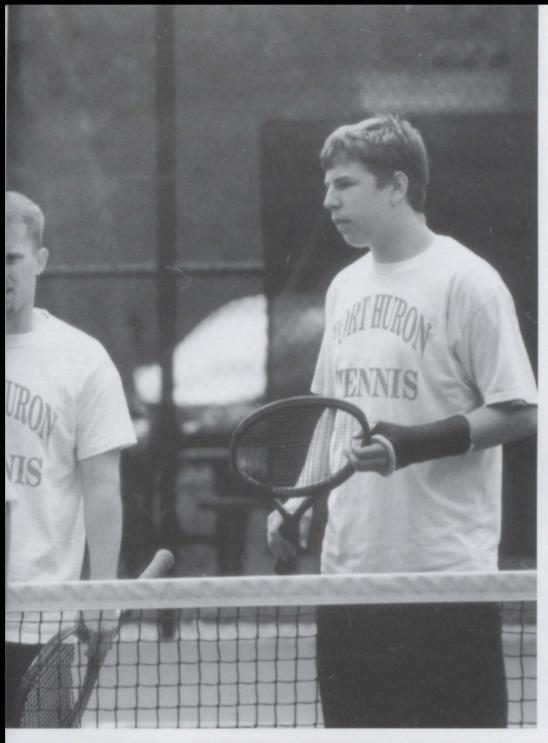

During practice, JV #1 doubles player Aurelio Pena reaches up for a ball that's nearly out lobbing it back over the net.

Tossing up the ball, JV #1 singles player Jermaine Walton winds up for a smashing serve into his opponent's side of the court.

Track Making an Impact

From the start of the season to the finish, the Big Reds battled for the MAC Red Division title. This year the team had to make the transition from the MAC White to a more competitive MAC Red Division. "My goal for our team was to win the MAC Red title and be the best team in the area," said Douglas Prevo (01). The Big Reds placed behind only Sterling Heights in the MAC Red giving them a second place finish in their first season in that division.

With the exception of a loss to their MAC Red rivals, the Big Reds went undefeated this season. In order to place second they had to go through some tough competition including hometown rivals, Port Huron Northern. They also came through at big invitational meets, earning a second place finish at three of the invitationals along with a first place finish at the Marysville Invitational.

The Big Reds had five state qualifiers for this season. The 1600 meter relay team composed of Nathaniel Edwards (01), Donald Thelmas (01), Justin Thomason (03), Ryan McInnis (01), were among the state qualifiers. Thelmas and Mcinnis also went to the state meet for their individual success in the 100 meter dash. Adam Roach's (02) goal was, "to go to states as a team." Adam qualified for the 1600 meter run.

With the home stretch quickly approaching, Adam Roach (02) speeds past his archrival from St. Clair, John Cook.

Launching himself into the air, Wyatt Myr (01) practices his pole vaulting routine before the Big Red meet.

As the opposing runner attempts to gain ground, Thomas Hull (02) quickens his pace during the hurdles competition.

Red Hot Run

Whether it was running in the rain, the snow, or in 90 degree weather, the Port Huron High School Girls' Track Team went to practice or headed to competition.

All the girls agree that home meets are better for them. "You feel more relaxed and confident," says Angela Stickler ('04), who ran Varsity sprints. Julie Puschmann and Michelle Durrant also agree that it helps "to know and be familiar" with the track you're running on.

One of the highlights of the season came with the record-breaking throws of Allina Portis who smashed her own discus record which now stands at 131 feet 4 inches. This amazing athlete also broke her own and the school shot put record. Joining Allina at states was Andrea Jones for high jump and Bethany Rasmussen who tied the school record of 9 feet with her pole vaulting skills.

At regular meets, Port Huron High School dominated both track and field. An especially hot relay team included the 3200 meter. In that distance run, Julie Puschmann, Rebecca Cooley, Michelle Durrant and Haran Stanley each ran two laps. Their relay team also made a school record with the time 10:01.06. In the sprints, Brittney Russell took her share of first place finishes along with Amber Lauderdale.

With five sophomores and a freshman on the Varsity team, it was an unusual year. "The team has shown definite progress in learning to play the game." said Mr. George Popa, head coach. The JV team had the same eight wins as the Varsity team, and the Freshmen topped both teams with ten wins for the season.

Despite competition and cold weather, the Varsity team dominated the eight schools vying for the Marysville Invitational win. Obviously, practice and coaching helped the girls make the "progress" that Mr. George Popa wanted. Also, "Our team had really good attitudes. We all got along really well. Everyone

Like Nicole, Abby McIntyre said, "Our team's strong points are our sportsmanship and that we don't get down on each other." For the Freshman team, it was the first time the group worked together, but they found satisfaction in defeating community rivals, Marysville -- twice.

Early in the season, the JV team blitzed crosstown rivals Port Huron Northern. Midseason they totally dominated Warren Mott. A later scheduled match up with L'Anse Creuse proved to be a challenge -- a challenge that they overcame, winning fourteen to thirteen.

Batter Up

As the weather began to warm up, the boys' baseball teams became more and more excited about the upcoming season. Tryouts lasted for three days and those who made the cut went on to practice preparing themselves for the start of their games.

Varsity had what coaches would call "a rebuilding year". "We definitely have talent, but we need to rid our game of the simple mistakes we practice on and our record would be reversed," added Coach Mr. Timothy Owens. The Varsity team finished with an overall record of 8 wins to 21 losses. "We are improving on our fundamentals; once we learn to do them more efficiently the wins will come," concluded assistant Coach Mr. Scott Nichols.

Both Junior Varsity and Freshmen team members practiced everyday from 2:30 to 4:30, working on situations and batting. Both teams had busy schedules to follow and even played in tournaments on Saturdays. Junior Varsity ended their season with 10 wins to 13 losses and the freshmen team finished with 11 wins to 7 losses.

Scott Dwyer (02) stated "I enjoy the sport, even though it was tough this year. We just need to work harder, and learn to play as a team instead of individually. I also liked playing against Northern because my Dad is the coach for the Varsity team there."

Mercied! The final word after the first two games the Varsity team played. "It's a great way to start the season," Mr. David Reno commented. The Varsity squad was very experienced, having fourteen players come back to the team out of twenty-two. "It helps to have girls come back. They know what's going on and they can teach the incoming players," said assistant coach, Ms. Kelly Blay.

This year's games were played at Port Huron Northern soccer complex. The Varsity team played ten home games and several away games. "Playing at home definitely helps to our advantage, you have more people there to cheer you on, and it's a Overall, the Varsity team won 6 games, lost 12 games and tied 1 game. The Junior Varsity team won 5 games, lost 5 games and tied 4 games.

The main focus this year was collaborating as a team. "We have a lot of talent on our team, now we just need to put it all together and make it work for us," said Cora Armstong-Blanchard.

What A Kick!

What a season! Coached by Mr. Dave Reno, the Varsity Soccer team ended their season in the league at 8-1-3 and overall at 9-6-4. The JV team coached by Mr. Dennis Shannon ended their season in their league at 2-1-3 and overall at 4-7-4.

Varsity team captains were Scott Young and Jonathan Beem. Lutz Friedrich; a Varsity player felt that Captain Jonathan Beem should be named M.V.P. for the season (which he was). Mr. Reno has been coaching soccer for six years, but has been Varsity head-coach for only two years. He looks for, "fundamentals- hard work, and committment" in a good soccer player.

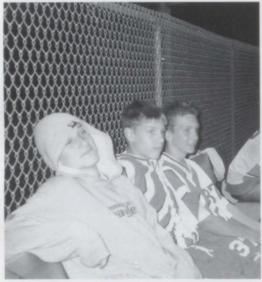

Sitting on the sides watching the game, Jason Finger, Timothy Obertein, and Andrew Ruppell watch as Grosse Pointe North overtakes the Big Reds.

Mark Oelze commented, "The hardest game was the game against Northern." The game was one that kept the fans screaming, but the Big Reds lost by one goal with a score of 2-3.

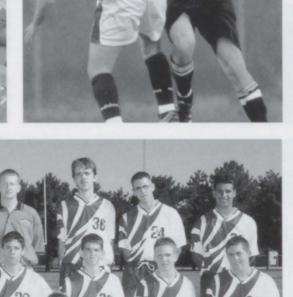

The Big Reds dominated the game against Fitzgerald with a score of 3-0. In Districts, they played Dakota and lost by four goals. The score was 0-4. Despite the losses, they had a great season and finished second in the MAC Silver Division.

Broken Record

It sounds like a broken record (no pun intended), but senior captain Adam Roach broke the Port Huron High 5-K record for the second year in a row with a 16:05 finish at the MAC White Division Meet. He went undefeated in dual meet competitions and won six out of seven Invitationals that the Big Reds participated in. Along with Roach, teammates Zammer Erving and Trevor DeVooght made the MAC White All-League team by finishing in the top fifteen at the Division Meet that took place at Metro Beach Parkway.

The Big Reds finished with a 3-6 record. They endured two hard losses by the hands of Cousino and Marysville; one by three Approaching the one-mile mark, senior Scott Dwyer inches closer to passing his Imlay City opponent. points and the other by two.

From broken toes to bad backs, the Big Reds suffered at least seven injuries. Senior Scott Dwyer said, "It's unfortunate and believe me, I know from experience."

The six newcomers brought additional talent to the team. These rookies included, Rookie of the Year Anthony Adent, Branden Helmrich, Jarred Veal, Thomas Wilson, James Zimmer, and Christopher Zuniga. Leading the improvement of the team was Most Improved Runner Joseph Messenger, who like the rest of these runners, took two minutes off of his time by the end of the season.

Being helped off the course by his teammates, junior Joseph Messenger toughed out a 5-K race with an injury.

Using each other as a way to pace themselves, teammates Zammer Erving and Anthony Adent remain ahead of their pack.

Staying one step ahead of his St. Clair and Algonac competitors, junior Trevor DeVooght fights to keep the lead.

The Distance

The Girls' Cross Country team united this year to come out of the season with a record of 5 and 4. Mr. George Moger said, "Our Cross Country team this year has done a great job; they went 3-4 in the MAC White Division." Cora Armstrong-Blanchard said, "I have been running about five years. Choosing Cross Country just kind of happened. It's the best team to be on because everyone gets really close."

"Being on the team has helped introduce me to high school and the girls are the best. I feel really good about being on the team this year," said Erin Stokan. The team's major victories this year were against Utica, Romeo, and Cousino. At the 2001 invitationals,

Tough League

The scoreboard doesn't tell the whole story. Fighting competiton in the toughest league, girls vied for position against teams heading for states. Add to this eleven new team members and a mere five returning players, and as would be expected, it took time to experience the new competition levels and to develop the skills to be strong opponents. What coaches refer to as a rebuilding year sums up the Varsity season.

When the season was over Mr. Robert Haas was nominated for Regional Coach of the Year by the (MTCA) Michigan Tennis Coach Assocciation.

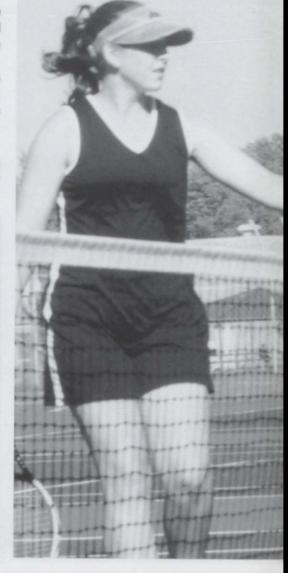

For JV there were similar obstacles:

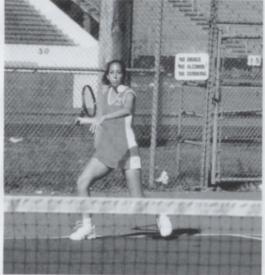

one of the toughest leagues and a new coach. Alumni and former Varsity doubles player Andrea Shock, took the role as JV coach. About a team DeVonna Manchester felt, "We did a lot better this year; we worked hard challenging ourselves to work harder to win the match."

Coaches set up practices for players to working on volleys, overheads, serves, forehands, and back hands helping them to improve their form.

Before their tennis match JV players Amanda Counterman and Katie Adolph warm up by volleying the tennis ball with their teammates.

Touchdown!!

Freshman and J.V. overcame adversity even with a low number of team members. Lawrence Roelens said, "Even without a lot of players, with the heart and determination we still did good." Junior Varsity finished the season with a record of 6-2-1. Freshman finished with a record of 5-4.

The freshman and J.V. teams both started practicing in early August. They practiced every weekday afternoon. During practices the teams running and hitting drills took place. Both teams also worked on defense, offense, and special teams. Mr. Antonio Giancarlo said "Our goal this season was to improve every day. I feel we did a great

According to the players, it didn't take much to pump the freshman and J.V. football players. "I just think about winning and the adrenaline starts flowing," said Ronald Searles. Some players say that what means the most to them is that, "It feels like a big family" Leslie Smith stated. Team Spirit

With four new coaches helping out, the Varsity Football team had a great start to the 2001 season. They began practicing their offense, defense skills and drills on July 30th.

The four new coaches this year included Mr. Timothy Roberts, Mr. Joseph Gilbert, Mr. Christopher Collins, and Alumni Jacob Brown. Through the summer heat, rain, and even cold, the team practiced Monday through Thursday for three and a half hours or more each day.

The most challenging part of being on the team is that "you have to commit to practice every day and work as hard as you can," said junior Adrien Brown.

Ready to be announced, Trevor Newton and Robert Marzolf wait as James Farver runs onto the field.

"It's exhausting going to practice then going home or to work and still having to do homework," commented junior James Schultz.

The team came through with a win against L'Anse Creuse North. "My favorite game was against L'Anse Creuse North because we came back in the second half and dominated them," added Tomas Kelch.

Despite the tough program of hitting, running and the commitment of time, the guys found that team spirit and camaraderie made the work worth while.

"Our best quality is the sense of trust among the linemen," said senior Joseph Wiczko.

Chasing the ball carrier from L'Anse Creuse North, Shawn Lincoln, Philip Spencer, and Jay Oliver move in for the tackle.

Through the banner goes lineman David Zarling before the game while the cheerleaders hold it in place.

Teamwork

While the J.V. had the advantage of returning players and coach, the freshman faced the challenge of a new team and a brand new coach. The J.V. welcomed back Mr. Lucas Edwards. The freshman greeted Mrs.Rebecca Gilbert, who was also new to the school.

J.V. member Renae Kilbourn said her goal for the year was "to reach a higher record than last year." Unfortunately, the team fell short of that when they had their sixth loss; for the 2000 team the number of losses was five.

In addition to keeping up with expectations of the athletic season, many freshmen players found out that high school basketball was more competitive than eighth grade. "This year, it's much harder than eighth grade, more fun than eighth grade because, you get to play more teams," said Cietia Johnson. Another team member felt the same way. Jasmine Curry says, "In high school you play a lot more teams, and the games are longer. There are a lot less fans because we're freshmen; it's the game not the crowd that matters. High school basketball is a bit more organized than junior high."

For both sets of girls, practice meant four and a half hours of work to perfect their skills and plays. "Physically, I practice like it's a game the day before the game, and mentally I just concentrate on what I have to do for the game," says Jessica Donlon-Marson, who wanted to be sure she was ready for the competition.

Coach Mrs. Rebecca Gilbert watches and gives tips while Di'Mond Davis shoots a lay-up at practice.

Determination

An excellent year for the Big Reds Girls' Basketball team! "Our winning record boosted the confidence in ourselves and our teammates, making it our best season ever," said senior guard Michelle Dickinson.

The team began practicing and conditioning the second week of summer vacation. In August tryouts were held and the varsity team of six seniors and seven juniors was selected. Later the team added one sophomore. Highlights of the season included being able to defeat the county rivals such as Marysville and St. Clair. Another highlight took place on Nov. 16, 2001, which consisted of beating Chippewa Valley in double over-time

50 to 47 for the title of District Champions and allowing the girls to advance to regionals.

At practice the girls often worked out new defensive drills and productive offensive plays to better their game and prepare them for opposing teams. Close scoring games tested the team's ability to play under pressure more than once throughout the season. Injuries, like pulled muscles and stressed ligaments didn't effect the fourteen member team's morale and dedication to one another.

Fr. & JVBasketball Young Talent

The coaching combinations for the Freshman and JV teams led the promising Big Red talent to improving seasons. This was freshman coach Mr. Alex Arcieri's first year working with his assistant coach, Mr. John Iles. Assistant JV coach Mr. Antonio Giancarlo helped out Mr. Mark Dickinson for the first time this year.

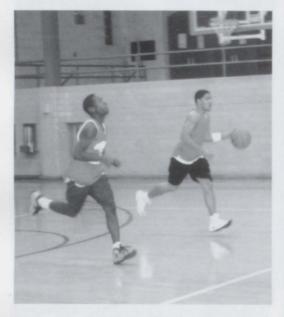

The Big Reds and the Huskies have shared an intense rivalry since their existence. Both of the P.H. basketball teams won close games over Northern this year.

Freshman guards Nasio Williams and Brian Washington wanted to go undefeated for the season. Its hard to live up to those standards but they did manage to win seven of their first ten games.

The players commented on how much they enjoy playing against Northern because of the atmosphere. Sophomore forward Justin Portis said, "My favorite team to play is Northern because I love all the spectators out in the crowd. It motivates us all to do better and work harder."

Working on the Big Reds' ball movement, sophomore Nathan Hall passes the ball down the court.

Varsity Basketball Key Wins

When the head coach, Mr. George Moger, was asked what teams he most anticipated playing he replied, "Northern and St. Clair because of the rivalry that exists." The anticipation was well worth it as the team came through with a couple of key victories.

The Big Reds trampled their crosstown foes by twelve points. They also defeated the St. Clair Saints by twenty-one points, showing who was the better team in head-to-head competition. The Varsity team also came through with a crucial home victory against Marysville. This win tied them for first place in the MAC White with St. Clair.

The Big Reds had high expectations for the season. After all, they were ranked the number one team in the Mac White Division at the beginning of the year. With six returning seniors leading the way, the team had a good chance.

The team started on a tear, winning their first nine out of ten games in regular season play. Their only loss during that streak was to Eisenhower, when the game went to overtime after the Big Reds tied it up in the fourth quarter.

Putting pressure on his opponent Nathan Korff, senior Adam Roach stands between Northern and the basket.

Strategy

Progress both mentally and physically helped the Big Red's hockey team pull forward and improve their skills and overall record.

Mr. Mike Pionk returned as head coach for his fourth consecutive year to instruct his new and younger team along with the aid of Mr. Ben Pionk, Mr. Scott Nichols, and Mr. Al Truskowski. The coaches began the season's practices by teaching the boys effective defensive and offensive strategies. while in the meantime, stressing motivation, self-discipline, and, of course, teamwork.

Only two seniors remained on the eighteen man roster, leaving the majority of the team to consist of underclassmen. "We hoped to find our strengths and weaknesses early, so our team would be able to adjust to each other's style of play and learn each other's abilities, while working out the flaws in our game," stated senior Captain Shaun Spana.

The team, once again, held their practices at McMoran's ice arenas and hosted their scheduled home games there, too. The team prepared themselves for a 22 game season, plus several tournaments and regionals.

The boys also had practice time with an NHL scout for the New York Rangers. Herb Hammond, showed the team drills and fundamentals that could improve their game.

Freshmen dominated volleyball through sheer numbers. The freshmen team obviously had all freshmen, but what was unusual was that the JV team had six freshmen and only three sophomores; even the Varsity team had 2 freshmen players.

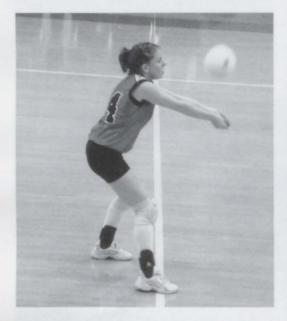

Both teams had new coaches. The JV team welcomed Ms. Laura Smith, while the freshmen team added Ms. Angela Gardner to the coaching staff.

With new leadership came new ideas. More drills were added to the practice routine and every weekday(except for game day)had a scheduled practice. These included bumping and spiking drills, a period of time to practice their serves, and running drills.

Renae Kilbourn said that with the new coaches, the practices were longer, and they did more drills, but the team was still a lot of fun. Jaclyn Vernier 05' stated, "I like to play, but high school is a lot different than in middle school. Now, there are a lot more practices and a lot of tournaments on Saturdays. When I was in middle school we played against other local schools and that was all."

Crush It

The Varsity Girls' Volleyball team was off to a slow start, but as the season went on they finally found their rhythm.

Amber Lauderdale knew that changes would be a big factor this season. "Mr. Jeff Dennis has chosen a really young team this season: me being a senior I really have to step up and show my younger teammates the positive ways of doing things and just helping out as much as I can." With the three freshmen and only two seniors and the remaining juniors, it really was a young squad.

As the new head coach of the Big Reds, Mr. Jeff Dennis certainly had his work cut out for him. "The transition to a varsity coach has been a time-consuming experience. Though the schedule has been demanding, it is the type of challenge I look forward to. Now the direction of my coaching not only revolves around coaching, but coaching personal player selection, and many behind the scenes activities. Future seasons will continue to be trying, but each will become an easier transition because of the constant building of the program." The coach continued the traditional Poinsettia sale.

Since last year the team had only one loss, and were MAC White Champs, City Champs, and District Champs, this year promised to be tough. The team came through with the title of City Champs, and they dominated at the Blue Water Tournament.

Varsity wrestlers traveled to Saginaw Valley for the night, where they went to Damons for dinner, and woke to a free breakfast. The tournament started at 9:00 A.M. Saturday. Mr. Chip Mossett gave the guys a curfew of 11:00 P.M or face a penalty. Tomas Kelch recalls, "My favorite part was going to Damons.I got an Oreo Cream Pie for dessert. The JV wrestlers did well according to Mr. David Reno. Andrew Fiedler commented. "We have a very good team. That team, however is young. As we get more experienced we'll become very tough." The JV wrestlers aren't the only young ones. "This year we have more underclassmen on Varsity." commented Coach Mossett,"as coaches we need to be a little more active pushing them."

New Turf

The 2001 PHHS Big Reds Boys' Golf Club Team finished the season with the best league record overall since 1998, finishing 5-5 in the MAC Gold and 5-11 overall. Led by senior medalist Ryan Westbrook, the Big Reds took third place in the MAC Gold, behind Anchor Bay and L'Anse Creuse North, who finished with identical 9-1 records.

The team enjoyed it's new course at Fore Lakes Golf Club, where tryouts were held on August ninth and tenth. Nine-hole practices were held every day on non-match days starting August thirteenth and ending October third. Ryan Westbrook and David Wingard paced the Varsity, with the remainder of the team alternating playing on Varsity and Junior Varsity. The lowest four scores on Varsity are added together to determine the match winner. The Big Reds lost one match by three strokes and one match by six strokes, so the league record does not really reflect the improvement that has been accomplished by this team.

"Practicing every day helped improve our skills," says Jesse Morrison. "This team has a lot of potential due to the younger members and experience of Varsity veterans."

Putting all of his strength into driving the ball onto the fairway, senior Ryan Westbrook attempts to put his team ahead.

Pump It Up

Did you notice anything new about the cheerleaders? Not only are there some new faces, but the JV team and the Varsity team switched uniforms. They did this in order to coordinate with the school colors. The JV cheerleading team had black pants which they wore to away games. When they found out that the JV football players had more away games than the Freshman team, the cheerleaders decided to make the switch. That way the Freshman squad wouldn't wear the black pants often--since "black" isn't technically one of the school colors--and they'll get to wear their shirts which have less black on them.

The Varsity squad was demonstrating their creativity when they decided to decorate white tee shirts using glitter and markers; they wore red shorts to complete their attire.

The JV squad has made up a wide variety of new cheers for this year. The cheers consisted of "V, Vi..." which was composed by Melissa Tillery and "Reds for Action" by Rachel Kulman and Janel Wakeham. Morgan Ostander composed "Loud as you Can," and also "P to the izz H, H to the izz S." Melissa Tillery, Rachel Kulman, and Morgan Ostrander helped create "Port Huron High, and We Ain't

"To prepare myself for a game I practice jumps, cheers, and stunts," Jeanette Baker said. Chelsea Kivel stated, "I prepare myself for a game by singing and practicing cheers; at the games I also stretch a lot before cheering." The girls had a great season, they are so happy to be cheerleaders, they all became great friends," said Christina Manning.

Round 1

About three years ago, PHHS decided to have two separate squads for the Varsity cheerleaders. One was the side line cheerleaders and the other one was Competitive Cheerleaders. This year they decided to put them together again.

There were three seniors, eight juniors and eight underclassmen on the squad. "There were so many underclassmen who needed to learn the routines so the practices were longer," said Erin Collins. Christina Manning said, "Everything is hard and has to be perfect while it still looks awesome!" They named their cheers Round 1, 2, and 3. Round 1 is all cheers, Round 2 is the unity round where everything they do is the same, Round 3 is full of stunts and tumbles. Round 3 is the girls' favorite because they love to learn the stunts. Ashlee Hall said, "Both Freshmen and J.V. require about the same amount of work. It does involve a lot of work but that's ok because you need to be fit. If it was any easier it would be football."

This year the freshmen thought of a new half time cheer for basketball. While they were working on it, they were using the cheer "Gotta Get Tough." Samantha Baird said, "Being on the high school cheerleading squad is way more advanced, but really fun."

For half time the Varsity Cheerleaders show spirit by doing their competitive cheer called Round 1.

Summer

Spending down time at the hotel pool Sabrina Miller, Ashley Russell, and Kristi Miller visit Niagara Falls.

At Boyne Highlands, Sara Bennett, Misty Marsh, and Rebecca Owens take a break from their summer work to sight-see Michigan's back country.

The summer was special for senior Jared Johnson because he got to reunite with his father in Maryland for the month of July.

Hayosh, and Ashlee Hall perch on top of the Egyptian Sphinx figure.

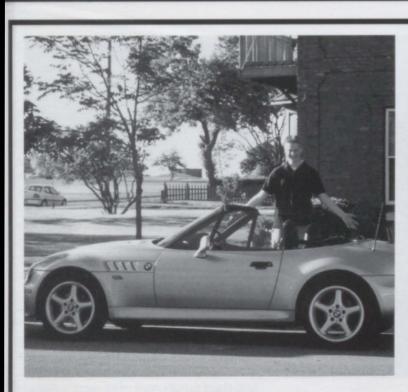

Courtney Jones and her brother Zach explore Mackinac Island's beauty.

Staying up late and sleeping in were on the top of Kevin Hutchins' list of favorite things to do during the summer months.

At a restaurant in Prague, Germany. Emily Moran, Kalena Armstrong, and Laura Lynch took a school designed trip to Germany in July.

While visiting family in Farmington Hills, Timothy Ruff gets an upclose look at his dream car, a BMW Z3.

Touring Michigan, Timothy Everett, Sara Everett, Brandie Warsalla, and their friends see the lower Tequmenon Falls.

Band Time

Pigs flew on April 28, 2001 as PHHS Honors Band did something they hadn't done in 15 yrs. They attended the State Band and Orchestra Festival in the highest ranking of The AA Division.

This meant giving up a Saturday to take a 2 hour bus ride to Clarkston High. The band performed three songs which consisted of "Entry March of the Bouvilleres", "Hymnsong of Philip Bliss," and "Irish Folksongs of County Derby."

Afterwards students were whisked away into a sightreading room where they were expected to perform a march and coral after looking at it for 10 minutes prior to playing in front of the judges.

Next, came a lunch break in the cafeteria. The band received a ranking of a 2. After receiving their rating the band headed for home. The bus ride was filled with a sigh of relief that all the hard work and endless hours of practicing were over; at least for the rest of the weekend.

Gathering outside of Clarkston High School the band celebrates their performance at the State

Festival. Band teacher Mr. Daniel Griffith said that their trip was "a great event to remember."

Final Year

Finally reaching a senior year can be exciting due to all the events that take place leading up to graduation day, and ,at last, receiving the diploma that will mark the end of secondary education for some. Having all required classes taken seniors still faced guest speakers, Portfolio Day, and cap and gown measurements added to marching practice, prom, graduation, and the all night party, which kept them busy with school events.

Senior year can also be expensive. Senior pictures, a top priority for many seniors, can range from $200 to $600 for certain packages, especially those done by professionals. Other expenses include announcements, cap and gowns, prom tickets, Newsweek magazines class dues, and possibly a graduation party. Another expense option could be a senior class trip.

Following graduation, an all night party was scheduled at the YMCA for the class of 2001.

2001 graduate Michelle Sullivan and senior Stacy Thayer enjoy the '01' Prom at the T. Edison.

"Seeing it was a glimpse of the past. It's great to see ships like that," remarked Nealy Kelley.

Portraying a British Soldier, Mr. Harry Burgess displays a cannon and traditional clothing.

Tall Ships

A large attraction this summer was the tall ships sailing along Lake Huron several times throughout the summer months. The ships were to represent the ones that first came to America from countries like Spain, England, and France around 1492. For example, the Nina was docked in the Black River by the 7th Street Bridge for several days. Residents could pay $4.00 to receive a tour aboard the ship and learn about the crew's responsibilities and living conditons while working or traveling aboard the ship.

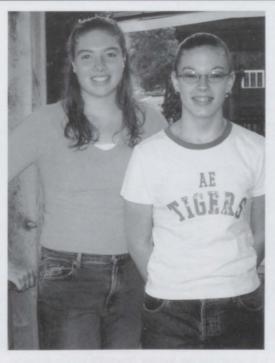

World History teacher, Mr. Harry Burgess at Port Huron High participated in the arrival of the tall ships, dressing the part to fit the realistic setting. The event made the front page of the Times Herald and helped tourism in Port Huron.

"It was quite an experience to see the difference between modern and old ships and I hope they return next summer," stated Scott Young.

Swimming

Two Port Huron High School students are extremely involved in the United States Swimming Organization. Sisters Kristin and Andrea Everhart practice at St. Clair High School, Monday through Friday from 7:00 until 9:00 P.M. Then, the girls participate in meets all over the eastern part of the state at cities such as, Grand Rapids, Clarenceville, and Ann Arbor on several weekends throughout the year. Kristin has been swimming for 7 years and Andrea has been swimming for 6 years.

In the past years the Blue Water Swim Club has not been considered a high school club or sport, but receiving a Varsity letter is still a possibility. A swim team for the next school year is being considered, but the team would be a combination of students from both Port Huron High and Port Huron Northern and they would compete as one school.

Blue Water Swim team members Kristin and Andrea Everhart "love to be a part of their team."

During the Jaguar Lakers tri-meet, Kristin Everhart pushes off the wall in the streamline.

The Spaghetti Bridge Building Team One of PHHS: Katrina Melbourne (02), Julie

Puschmann (01), Christian Schwickert (01), Michelle Lee (02), and Mr. Hal Langolf.

Dexterity

It may seem peculiar, building bridges out of spaghetti, but that was the task given to PHHS' 8 participants (2 teams) of Ferris State University's annual Spaghetti Bridge competition.

Each team was required to build a scale model of a bridge made entirely of pasta (string was also allowed to stand in for suspension cables), to write a paper "proposing" the bridge, and to make a presentation power pointing the paper. Each of these were judged by professors from the college.

The final requirement was to construct a bridge within 2 hours at the competition site, built using only spaghetti and hot glue. After the 2 hours passed the bridge had to be complete; it was then weighted and tested to learn the capacity that the bridge could hold.

PHHS' two teams both met the challenge. During the first day of the competition everything went smoothly,

Quincenera

Sweet 16 is what American girls look forward to, Quincenera is what Mexican girls celebrate. In both cultures they signify maturity and womanhood. They usually involve gifts and celebrating with friends and family.

Americans celebrate their sixteenth birthday; a Quincenera is for girls turning 15. In the Quincenera there is a church ceremony involved that is followed by a reception. The to-be-15 yr. old girl's god-parents play a major role in this event. They usually plan the party, reserve the church, purchase the outfits worn by their god-daughter and for her 30 member court. Family plays a big role in the celebration. They usually make up the entire court. The Americanized version allows friends to join in the ceremony. The birthday girl wears a white gown and her court wears formals.

presentations were judged, and the scores were in. At the end of Day 1, Team one had placed 4th. Team two also known as, 3 Guys, a Girl, and a Spaghetti Bridge placed 3rd.

Day two, Mr. Langolf was pulled aside during breakfast. It seems that a small stipulation in the rules wasn't clarified; one of the two teams would be disqualified for the first day's event, but could participate in the on site competition. Mr. Langolf consulted both teams, and together they decided to have 3 Guys, a Girl, and Spaghetti Bridge carry on. Team 1 finished and placed 6th in the two hr. competition, 3 Guys, a Girl, and a Spaghetti Bridge, finished in 2nd place with their bridge holding 19 lbs. By placing second the team won a $1000 scholarship for each team member.

"It was disappointing when we were disqualified, but the trip was fun," senior Michelle Lee recalls. This year PHHS returned with two more teams, inlcuding last year's participants Nathaniel Armstrong and Katrina Melbourne.

3 Guys, a Girl, and a Spaghetti Bridge: Kristin Banker (02), Nathaniel Armstrong (02), Jason Hendrickson (02), Justin Maes (02), and Mr. Hal Langolf.

Six PHHS seniors: Chrishonda Miles, Theresa Orr, Danielle Ongie, Justin Daggett, Amber

Lauderdale, and Lindsay Eschker taught fifth grade students about going to high school.

Role Models

"They wanted to be our best friends," stated Theresa Orr about the fifth grade students she talked with. The six D.A.R.E. Role Models went to the elementary schools to inform kids what to expect going into middle and high school grades. Their job was to warn them about peer pressure and answer questions the children had regarding things such as "What is the hardest part about middle/high school." Another favorite was: "Is there a 6th grade/freshman Kill Day?"

The role models goal was to relieve fears about advancing into higher levels of education. A teacher stated that "If any other person, such as Britney Spears or NSYNC had shown up the children wouldn't have paid as much attention, they wanted to know everything about high school."

different districts got together to learn more about the career they want to be in after they graduate from high school.

There are fifteen different programs offered at St. Clair Technical Educational Center. These programs are: Business Services and Technology, Marketing, Auto Body Repair, Automation in Manufactoring, Automotive Technology, Construction and Building Technology, Drafting, Electronics, Marine Technology, Metal Machining, Plastic Manufactoring Technology, Welding, Health Careers, Cosmetology, and Culinary Arts and Food Services.

St. Clair Technical Educational Program has this variety of programs to give the students a more in-depth study of the career they plan on applying for after they graduate. The classes first semester prepared the students for what they will need to know

Juniors and Seniors from nine to go into that field of work. In the second semester, some continue the training and others such as Health Classes go to different places to receive a hands-on experience to test their continued interest with that career.

> Second year students have an opportunity to do employer-based work. That's when they go to a job on a regular basis; then, they show up at TEC once a month. Obviously, this on the job training is an asset. It gave them work experience to add to their resume, along with a certification certificate that they earned from the Tech Center.

200 PHHS students took advantage of this off campus credit to get a head start on their career. Bus transportation to and from the school was provided. Students were required to abide by far stricter attendance rules.

Terry Barnes and Lee Daniels are working on a project in Electronics at St. Clair Technical Educational Program.

Cleaning up a mess that was made in Constructing and Building Technology is David Hering and Matthew Duncan.

September 11

The horrific attacks against the United States on September 11, 2001 have left lasting impressions on the nation. Osama bin Laden's Al Queda terrorist network hijacked planes and flew them into both towers of the World Trade Center. The Twin Towers completely collapsed within a few hours killing thousands. Surrounding buildings also were destroyed by flames and falling debris. A total of four hijacked planes crashed that day (two into the World Trade Center, one into the Pentagon, and the fourth crashed in a farmer's field in Pennsylvania) killing all passengers aboard.

This tragic event has brought many people closer together, by showing their patriotism and support for mankind. The economy which was on the brink of recession plummeted quickly following the devastating event. Midwest states were hit the hardest because consumers only purchased the necessary items for every day life.

The aftermath of that day has impacted lives all over the world. Families were torn apart in a matter of hours, from those who perished in the fires to those sent to Afghanistan to prepare for war. The value of people's lives now had to be determined, causing extreme controverse among those people involved. Throughout the months after, Americans have tried to recover, but will never forget 9-11.

People are shown leaving the area near the Twin Towers in New York. In one of the most horrifying attacks against the U.S.; terrorists crashed four airplanes.

Smoke pours from the World Trade Center, viewed behind the Empire State Building.

A Candlelight vigil was held on the Promenade in the Brooklyn borough of New York. People prayed and sang against a skyline which had long been dominated by the Twin Towers.

The south tower of the World Trade Center begins to collapse following the attack.

A Deputy U.S. marshal helps a woman after she was injured in the World Trade Center.

People frantically run from the collapse of the two 110 story World Trade Center Towers.

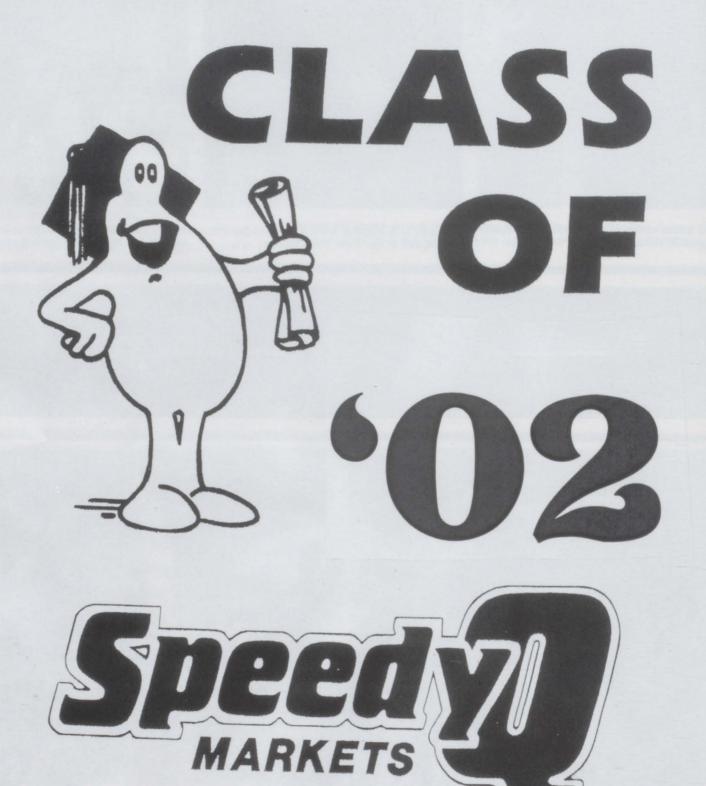

Port Authority police officers carry the casket of an officer, who was killed in the line of duty, in the attack trying to rescue the victims.

Smoke billows from behind the Statue of Liberty where the Twin Towers stood. Planes crashed into the upper floors of both towers moments apart.

Despite the problems in the nation, state, and country with money and violence, the year held some miraculous highlights. A major focus of the year for both students and staff were charitable events, helping others, and returning to normal.

Student Council ran many of these events such as the Can Food Drive, collecting 2700 pounds donoted to the Salvation Army. About 85 pints of blood was given during the Blood Drive. Jail 'n' Bail brought in $6,648.42, compared to the $4715.73 in the previous year. The Big Red Marching Machines raised $1900 for the March of Dimes by auctioning their performance for Super Bowl Sunday to the highest bidder, the Elk's Club.. Mrs. Dana Giancarlo's classes raised $800 for the United Way's 9-11 fund by selling patriotic pots. Mrs. Renee Hinkley's ribbon and bake sale netted $180 for the Red Cross's 9-11 fund.

Innovations to the school, included the new computers in the computer lab, along with ten lap tops in the media center. This was the first year Mr. Gregg Wagner set up a Physic's Club for students. Outside the school cement benches were added by the Court Street entrance and near the Drama room. Inside the school store a Slushie machine was a big hit with its' unusual flavors such as Pina Colada, French Vanilla, and Blue Raspberry.

Teachers and Administrators helped out in areas or classrooms other than their own--tiny miracles of sharing their time and talent. For example, the English teachers have shared lesson plans and projects. Mr. Jeff McCabe made a website for them on which to put these ideas. This let new teachers log in for what the current teachers had covered and how they accomplished it. Also, there were various sessions for new teachers to get lesson ideas or discipline ideas from other teachers. Faculty were offered more choices in order to fulfill their requirements for Professional Development. Administrators visited rooms like the foreign language classes on culture days to serve as judges and offer entertainment.

When the President told Americans an important way to fight terrorism was to continue their normal life style, most teens responded. Students brought in new fashions like jeans with no waist, and more detailed with sparkles, and rhinestones. T-shirts had bigger graphic prints or glitter and lace. Guys bought Jordan Retros; girls wore high boots with thick soles and clear dress shoesspending as usual.

Around the community for Christmas, people decorated with patriotic colors and the U.S. flag. Not only were houses lit up, but the stores carried light up patriotic pens.

Amigas buenas (good friends) Amber Tallant and Crystal Waldrop enjoy their Fiesta Day in Spanish class.

During Mr. Rock Stevens American History classes Mrs. Deb Hesterberg re-enacted a part from Civil War while wearing her Civil War attire.

Helping Student Council, senior Megan Fiedler takes donations at the annual Jail 'n' Bail raising money for the March of Dimes which helps babies with birth defects. Megan made calls to friends, family, and businesses for donations to either let her out of jail or keep her in jail.
